Rangoli Based Decor:

ELA students participated in creating a beautiful rangoli at the campus depicting the tiranga. They also created a selfie point around it using flags, tri-color balloons and drawing. Several students and teachers clicked selfies and posted pictures with it on social media.

Drawings and posters :

The notice board was decorated with beautiful drawings, posters and illustrations on the theme 'Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav' by students and teachers of our college. The illustrations depicted the Indian culture, tourism and its rich heritage. The drawing was a tribute to the national heroes of Indian independence struggle.

Essays and speeches :

Students of our college wrote several essays and poems on various political and social issues addressing the country. They also highlighted on the glorious years of independence, country's journey towards becoming nuclear power, and self-reliant in many areas. They elaborated the contribution of freedom fighters in independence struggle. These essays and poems were posted on ELA and Students' Council social media page. The event marked the progress and prosperity achieved by India and the role of our martyrs in shaping the nation.

Post the picture challenge:

An online presence was created by hosting a 'Post a picture challenge' to create awareness among the youth regarding the importance of Tiranga. The challenge was to post a picture that resembles tiranga and use the hashtags to increase the reach, creating more awareness using #MainBharatHu, #harghartiranga, #azadikaamritmahotsav.

In college celebrations:

The whole college was decorated with colourful balloons and lights. Teachers and students were dressed up in the tricolor showing unity and enthusiasm along with active participation in celebrating India's independence. Patriotic songs were played at the campus, keeping the spirit alive.

The celebration went on for the entire independence week. It was decided that every year on the eve of Independence Day and Republic Day college will be decorated in tri-colour and various activities will be conducted for students to participate.
